One of Carmel Valley's biggest events each year is the annual Horse Show sponsored by the Carmel Valley Trail & Saddle Club. Hundreds of entries from throughout Central California will compete in a wide variety of events. Some of the top riders and horses, in their classes, in the state will compete. It will be held on Saturday and Sunday at the club's arenas.

EDITORIAL

For some time now the Carmel Valley Outlook has been trying to get county legal notices that pertain to Carmel Valley published in the Carmel Valley newspaper.

There is a certain amount of logic in this.

Those legal notices which the law requires are designed for a single purpose: to inform the public, and particularly, that part of the public which they mainly concern.

The bureaucracy in Salinas, however, looks at the legal notice requirement a little differently. They see it as a nuisance, largely, and the proper informing of the public as incidental.

When this matter was brought to the attention of County Supervisor Willard T. Branson of Carmel Valley, he had this to say:

"...the Planning Department has found it very difficult to try to schedule notices for their twice a month meetings in a paper that publishes weekly."

Very difficult? Similar departments throughout the state of California do not have this difficulty. Why Monterey County?

TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor
Carmel Valley Outlook

Many persons say they are confused by the new 2½ acre interim zoning ordinance.

After August 28 they will have no excuse for confusion. The meeting to be held at 8 p.m. in the Tularcitos School on Ford Road will feature Mr. Edward DeMars, County Planning Director, as guest speaker. Mr. DeMars will answer questions from the floor concerning the 2½ acre interim ordinance, now in effect for ninety days from date of its approval on July 29. He will also answer questions, insofar as he can, concerning the status of a permanent ordinance.

Here are a few of the many questions that may be asked at the meeting.

1. Is the 2½ acre interim ordinance considered an improvement over the Slope Density Formula originally proposed by the CVPOA? If so, why?
2. In laymen's language, does the Slope Density Formula - based upon the Spangle study - mean "the steeper the slope, the more acreage required"? If so, what's wrong with that?
3. Now that Carmel Valley can be zoned as a separate entity - as attested by the current interim ordinance - will the original Slope Density Formula be reviewed and considered as part of the final permanent ordinance?
4. Does the 2½ acre ordinance prohibit an owner from building on the one-acre lot he bought before the ordinance went into effect, assuming the one-acre lot to be in the restricted slope area?
5. About how much will it cost to find out whether the average cross-slope of a one-acre lot on a hillside is more or less than 30 percent?
6. Why was specific reference to the 300 foot contour or elevation eliminated from the wording of the final 2½ acre ordinance?
7. The new ordinance indicates that cantilevered stilt construction will be approved. Since such construction can be extremely unsightly - and even hazardous - should there not be architectural control embodied in a final permanent ordinance?
8. The Hidden Hills subdivision on Los Laureles grade offers houses built on 2½ acre lots. Is this representative of what our Carmel Valley slopes will look like under this new 2½ acre ordinance if it should become permanent as-is?
9. What provisions of the new ordinance are designed specifically to prevent the risk of mudslides on Carmel Valley slopes?
10. A landowner or builder or developer may deliberately or through ignorance of the law, scar the hillsides with unlawful cuts. What will be the penalty?

CONSTANCE B. SMITH

Mr. Branson then goes on to say this:

"They are also concerned about the problem of knowing whether or not the weekly paper actually has adequate or the best circulation in a given area."

They are not concerned whether a daily paper 'actually has adequate or the best circulation in a given area' -- but only whether a weekly paper has.

How ridiculous can you get?

This unfair discrimination was most clearly demonstrated when the Interim Ordinance on land use in Carmel Valley was recently passed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

This was of major concern to the entire Carmel Valley. And where do you suppose the bureaucracy in Salinas had this published?

The Salinas daily paper--whose circulation in Carmel Valley is about as negligible as any you can find. They have no delivery service here and the Carmel Valley post office has only a handful of this paper to distribute. And you can't buy a Salinas paper on ANY Carmel Valley

To the Editor:

The letter recently published in your paper from Mr. Robert Bolman claimed that the petition recently submitted was misleading, and I would like to QUOTE the heading of this petition: "We the undersigned business men, property owners and residents of The Carmel Valley Village Area, hereby petition The U.S. Post Office Dept. to locate The Village Post Office as near to the center of the present business area as possible." You will note that the petition reads, as near to the center of the present BUSINESS AREA as possible.

If Mr. Bolman would accuse use of self interest in this matter, I would suggest that Mr. Bolman take a good long look in the mirror. I believe that Mr. Bolman is trying to locate the Post Office in his new PLAZA Shopping Center as bait to develop a new business section for his personal profit. And this would be at the expense of fifty or more businesses and offices that are already established. The suggested site is nearly a mile from the present location of the Post Office and is at the extreme western border of the business area. There is one motel across the street, and the balance of the business area is quite a distance to the east of this proposed site.

A letter received from Mr. E. H. Bouhaben, vice president of The Del Monte Properties Co., would indicate that that Company is also vitally interested in this project of Mr. Bolman's.

It is still a FREE COUNTRY, and we all believe in the Free Enterprise System, and we all want free competition. And because of this right, we all intend to fight for our own business future and welfare. And we again ask the U. S. Post Office Dept. not to use a new Post Office site, for personal gain of one man. Three other more central sites have been offered, all with adequate off street parking.

'Hardly anybody has seen this ordinance' newstand.

Connie Smith, one of those active in the Carmel Valley Property Owners Assn., made this rather obvious statement: "Hardly anybody has seen this ordinance. How will they know what questions to ask if they have not seen it in detail? Publication of this in whole or in part (in the Carmel Valley Outlook) would be most helpful to everybody, I think."

As a public service, the Outlook is doing just this. The Salinas paper was paid about $100 to publish it for the edification of Salinas, and the Outlook is publishing it free for the enlightenment of the people for whom it is intended.

Mr. Branson says the County Counsel, Planning Director and Zoning Administrator are firm in wanting the present cozy relationship with the daily papers maintained.

The only logical question this newspaper has to ask, and it probably speaks for all weekly papers in Monterey County, is, just who are these bureaucrats supposed to be serving?

ORDINANCE NO. 1683 (Carmel Valley Area)

AN INTERIM ORDINANCE OF THE COUNTY OF MONTEREY, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, APPLYING CERTAIN ADDITIONAL REGULATIONS TO CERTAIN BUILDINGS, STRUCTURES, AND LAND USES IN THE CARMEL VALLEY AREA.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Monterey, State of California, do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1:

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Monterey, State of California has adopted a Zoning Ordinance under the provisions of which Zoning Ordinance zoning regulations are applicable in unincorporated areas of said County. Said Board of Supervisors finds that certain adopted regulations may be in conflict with contemplated zoning plans and regulations, which the Planning Commission and the Planning Department are studying, and that the adoption of this interim ordinance as an urgency measure is necessary to protect the public safety, health and welfare.

SECTION 2:

No person, firm or corporation shall hereinafter, within those portions of the unincorporated area of the County of Monterey which are set forth and specified in Section 3 of this Ordinance, erect, construct, or use any building, structure, or land other than as set forth in Section 4 of this Ordinance, unless and until a Special Permit therefor shall have been first secured.

Application for such Special Permit shall be made to the Monterey County Planning Commission and said Planning Commission shall have the power to hear and decide applications for, and to issue Special Permits.

The Planning Commission may impose such conditions to the approval of a Special Permit as it deems necessary to secure the purpose of this Ordinance.

Appeals to the Board of Supervisors may be taken by the applicant or any other person from decisions of the Planning Commission upon an application for a Special Permit. Such appeal shall be made by filing notice thereof with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors within five days from the date of Planning Commission action.

Said Board of Supervisors may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the Planning Commission.

No building permit shall be issued, nor any use conducted, otherwise than in accordance with the conditions and terms of the Special Permit granted and not until five days after the granting of the Special Permit by the Planning Commission, or in the event of appeal to the Board of Supervisors, until the final determination thereof.

SECTION 3:

The portions of the unincorporated area of the County of Monterey which are referred to in Section 2 of this Ordinance are shown on the map of and entitled, "Map Showing Interim Zoning District in the Carmel Valley Area," which map is attached hereto and made a part of this Ordinance.

SECTION 4:

In the areas described in Section 3 of this Ordinance the following additional zoning regulations shall apply, and if any of the regulations specified in this Section differ from any regulations now set forth in Ordinance No. 911, then in such case the provisions of this Section shall govern.

a. Minimum Building Site Area Required: Two and one-half acres with the following exceptions:

- (1) One acre minimum building sites may be approved by the Director of Planning upon the submission of substantiating evidence by the property owner that the average cross slope of the individual one acre site is less than thirty percent.

(2) One acre minimum building sites may be approved by the Director of Planning upon the submission of a development plan indicating that no more than one thousand square feet of the building site has been or will be disturbed for all cuts and fills related to all construction on the property including, but not limited to, building construction, driveways, or swimming pools.

(3) The permitted uses shall be allowed on a building site of less area than that required by the regulations provided that at the time said requirements became applicable to it, the owner or owners thereof owned no adjoining land, unless said parcel and such adjoining land are lots in a subdivision which has been approved by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Monterey.

b. The standard for determining average cross slope is as follows:

- Where:
 - S=0.02291L over A
 - Interval of measured contours in feet
 - S=Average cross slope of parcel in percent
 - L=Combined length of contours in feet (i.e. map measurement of contours in inches x the scale)

A=Area of parcel in acres
Contours for parcels of less than five acres shall be determined by measurement or field survey. Larger parcels may be an enlargement of USC and GS, or similar, maps unless there is doubt as to accuracy of location of the parcel whereupon a field check of contours shall be required. Unless the frequency of contours across the parcel requires it or it is specifically requested by the property owner, twenty five foot contour intervals shall be measured for the values of L and L in the above formula.

SECTION 5:
It shall be the duty of the Zoning Administrator of the County of Monterey, State of California, and all officers and employees of said County herein charged by law with the enforcement of this Ordinance, to enforce all the provisions of the same.

Any person, firm, or corporation, whether as principal or agent, employee or otherwise violating or causing or permitting the violation of any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by fine of not more than three hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the County Jail of said County for a term not exceeding three months or by both such fine and imprisonment. Such persons, firm or corporation shall be deemed to be guilty of a separate offense for each day during any portion of which any violation of this Ordinance is committed, continued, or permitted by such person, firm, or corporation, and shall be punishable as herein provided.

Any building or structure erected, constructed, or used contrary to the provisions of this Ordinance, and any land, building, or premises established, conducted, operated, used, or maintained contrary to the provisions of this Ordinance shall be and the same is hereby declared to be unlawful and a public nuisance, and the District Attorney of said County shall upon order of the Board of Supervisors, immediately commence action or proceedings for the abatement and removal and enjoinder thereof in the manner provided by law. The remedies provided for herein shall be cumulative and not exclusive.

TEXT OF INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE

SECTION 6:
If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared invalid.

SECTION 7:
This Ordinance is hereby declared to be an urgency measure and necessary for the immediate preservation and enjoyment of public safety, health, and welfare. The facts constituting said urgency are as follows:

That zoning studies are now being conducted by the Planning Commission and the Planning Department which will lead to the adoption of precise and detailed zoning regulation; that it has come to the attention of the Board of Supervisors that there are persons already intending to erect buildings and structures and to use land in a manner which will be in conflict with the contemplated zoning regulations; that such would destroy the effect and purpose of the contemplated zoning regulations if not regulated immediately. For reasons stated, this Ordinance shall take effect immediately after its adoption and shall remain in effect for a period of ninety days.

SECTION 8:
The Board of Supervisors, by the adoption of this Ordinance does not intend to modify, change or amend the concept of the Three Ranches Plan adopted by the Board of Supervisors on July 26, 1966, as part of the Monterey Peninsula Area General Plan.

PASSED AND ADOPTED this 29th day of July, 1969, by the following vote:

Ayes: Supervisors Church, Atteridge, Tavernetti, Smith, and Branson.

Noes: None.

Absent: None.

Dr. Walton Lee talks to Kiwanians

"The Threat to Man and His Environment" was the subject of Dr. Walton L. Lee's talk to the Kiwanis Club at their last meeting. A marine ecologist, Dr. Lee is with the Hopkins Marine Station at Pacific Grove. Fifty years ago, Dr. Lee said, no one would have believed that a man could reach the moon, and twenty years ago we would not have thought that a man could effectively and dangerously pollute the entire globe - but both have happened. The worst offender in pollution, according to Dr. Lee, is DDT. A pesticide, containing chlorinated hydrocarbon, DDT has broad biological activity, in that it is not completely soluble and can be carried by air as well as by water.

In the ocean, Dr. Lee told the group, DDT pollutes plant life on which marine life feeds. It is then passed on to bird life, which feeds upon this marine life. The cycle, therefore, endangers the processes of all. Eventually, this contamination will result in the elimination of some species of marine life on which we now depend, and may be more dependent upon in the future as a source for high-protein food.

The California Legislature recently passed a law which will phase out the use of DDT, Dr. Lee said. Although agriculture, the great California industry, may not agree to the necessity for doing so. Because of its chemical components, DDT's effects may be felt for many years after its use is discontinued. Dr. Lee's closing remark, "You can replant a field, but you cannot restock the ocean," is food for thought.

On September 27, the Kiwanians will hold their Annual Dinner and Installation of Officers at Rippling River Resort.

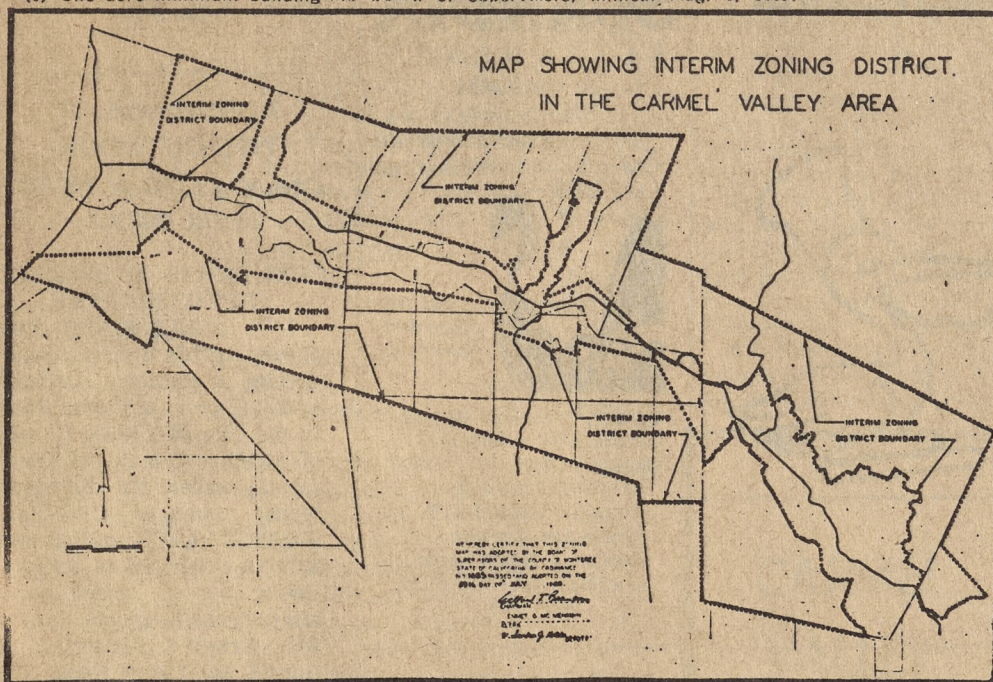

A FRANCISCAN BROTHER at Old Mission San Antonio at Jolan molds tiles in the primitive method of 18th century production....Tile making was one of more than 50 trades taught the Indians at San Antonio in early California days....Explanations of the trades and their products will be given by the brothers at Mission San Antonio on the three-day Labor Day weekend which the mission celebrates honoring labor and showing how early mission days were influenced by skilled labor of that time.

Parent orientation at Carmelo School

Next Tuesday, there will be a parent-orientation meeting for Carmelo School. The parents will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the school library for coffee, and then adjourn to the individual classrooms to meet the teachers. The program for the year will be discussed, and some of the materials to be used will be demonstrated. Materials will be on display. If you have a child--or--children--enrolled at Carmelo, Principal Phillip Smith urges you to attend.

Over 400 sign postoffice petitions

The petitions requesting that the Post Office be kept as near to the central part of the village area as possible, have been collected and mailed to the Post Office Dept., according to Kenneth Van Hagen. The petitions were placed in five businesses in the area, and over four hundred persons signed these petitions. "If we had openly solicited signatures, placed someone at the Post Office for example," said Van Hagen. Three sites with adequate off street parking were offered to the Post Office, other than the Plaza site.

Oktoberfest planned at St. Dunstan's

Great plans are now underway for St. Dunstan's big OKTOBERFEST, to be held on the 25th of October at the church on Robinson Canyon Road. The Annual Bazaar will be combined with the traditional German Harvest Festival. There will be games for children, based on a Halloween theme, and delicious German food. Booths will offer knitted items, needlecraft, and hand-crafted items, as well as produce and pumpkins raised by the church-school children. Also, there will be a garden booth, with items from and for the garden. Many other booths will add gaiety to this colorful event. Preview on new zoning ordinance

Property owners who attend a meeting here Thursday night will likely get a preview of a permanent ordinance governing slope density in Carmel Valley.

Called by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Assn., the meeting will be held at the Tularcitos School multipurpose room starting at 8 o'clock.

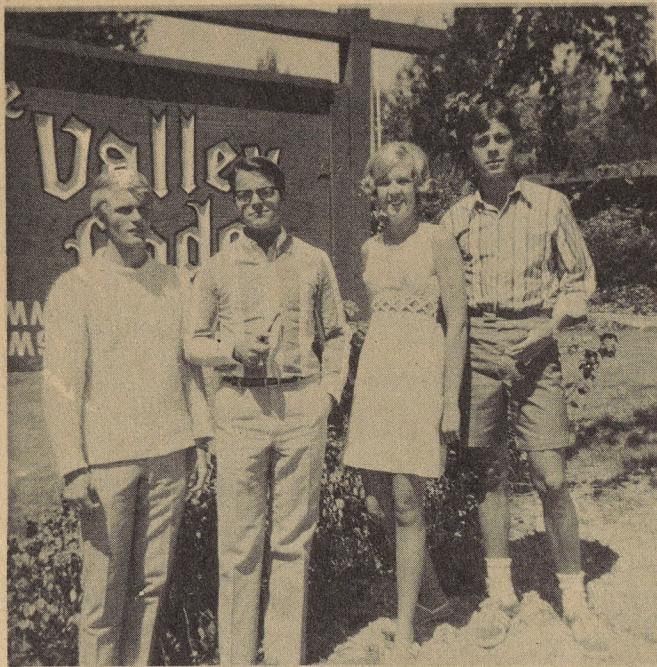

Ed DeMars, county planning director, will be on hand to discuss other aspects of land development in the Valley as well.

The public is invited to attend, said Ed Kaminske, president of the organization.

The ordinance passed by the county board earlier on July 29, which is effective for only 90 days, is published elsewhere on this page for the information of Valley residents (See editorial on Page 2).

Local Red Cross asked for $1,003

The Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross has been asked to raise $1,003 as its share of the $6 million needed to assist the victims of Hurricane Camille, termed by the Red Cross as one of the most devastating in its disruption of health and communication services. Any contributions to help meet the need may be made to the local chapter and designated for disaster care of Box A-R, Carmel.

Updikes have visitors from Paris

Last week, the Updikes of Valley Lodge, entertained Mrs. Theodore Janof and her two nephews, Paul and Alain Piron. For the past two years, Colonel and Mrs. Theodore Janof have been frequent guests of Ralph and Betty Updike. It all started when the Janofs came as weekend visitors to the area and chose the lodge as their headquarters. Because Mrs. Janof thinks Carmel Valley the most delightful resort area in the State, she brought the boys down before they return to France.

Richard, who is 19, has just completed his training as a French chef. After he serves one year in the military service at home, he plans to come back to the United States - possibly to the Monterey Peninsula. During his stay at Valley Lodge, he has concocted some interesting French cuisine for the Updikes and their friends.

His brother, Alain, is a student in Paris, studying economy. Both boys are very good tennis players, according to Betty Updike. They have been playing at various racket clubs in Sacramento, where the Janofs live. Doug and Sandra have enjoyed their French visitors, also. The other night, they took them into Carmel to a party. Richard had baked an apple pie to take along, and at the party he prepared an egg souffle to delight the guests.

One evening, when Richard had offered to make dinner, Betty asked what he wore to cook in - thinking to get him a man's apron. She looked at him inquiringly when he replied in his Parisian accent that he wore his tennis clothes. Betty had misunderstood, thinking he'd said only tennis shoes.

Their aunt, Mrs. Janof, is also French. She met her husband in France during World War II, and came with him to the United States in 1948. Colonel Janof retired from the service several years ago and is the new principal for the adult school in Roseville. For the past five years, he has been teaching modern mathematics.

Their son, Captain Laurence S. Janof, is a West Point graduate like his father. Before reporting for a nine-month training course in Fort Benning, Georgia, Captain Janof plans to spend two weeks with his parents in Roseville. His sister, Janice Janof, has just returned from Germany where she has taught in the American School for three years. She plans to study at Sacramento State for her Master's in Education Administration.

"This stay in the Valley has been the most pleasurable part of my nephews' visit," Mrs. Janof said, in her charming French accent. "This is their first visit to the States, and they've been here six weeks."

Cookery Corner

BY MRS. B.C. FORRESTER

That rarity, a great international cook of English origin, is found in John Dingle. He was a boy of 13 years when the financial panic of 1902 struck England. He ran away from an approaching term of seven years apprenticeship as draftsman, to take work as a kitchen boy at miserable wages that he might be able to contribute to the family support in those hard times. Besides he had even then decided that men would never do without food and clothing. Therefore he would provide good, well prepared and served. He must first learn to cook.

The story of his struggle to become a master cook might have come from the pen of Horatio Alger. The long hours, ten in the morning to ten at night, the meagre pay for untrained help, his effort to learn French in a few hours once a week when his work was over at six in the evening. England in that period favoured foreign cooks and names. "Restaurants" were fashionable, while "cookshop" implied something cheap. "Cafes" were popular, "coffeeshops" were not, being mainly for the poor.

John Dingle got his first break when he asked for and got a place as one of the English cooks who assisted the French Chef at the Constitutional Club in Picadilly in London. His work was to prepare certain food Englishmen like. By this time John Dingle had really learned to cook, and knew every phase of kitchen work.

From this time on, success crowned his efforts. During the war he owned and managed a residential hotel and dining room, and also a restaurant in London. From the Old Drawbridge Hotel in Bristol to ownership in London makes a fascinating account of a boy achieving his dream.

The typically English food on the Constitutional Club menu of course included:

ROAST BEEF AND YORKSHIRE PUDDING

A rib roast should be placed on a rack in uncovered roaster. Do not flour. Do not use water. Do not baste. A 3 to 5 pound roast, boned and rolled, should be put in 325 degree oven, fat side up. If meat is desired "rare", leave in oven for 31 to 36 minutes per pound; for "medium" let it cook for 36 to 40 minutes per pound. "Well done" should cook from 38 to 43 minutes per pound.

Some cooks suggest removing roast from roaster when done before making the Yorkshire pudding. I prefer to cook the Yorkshire under the roast some 15 or 20 min. before roast is done, letting the meat juice drop on the Yorkshire mixture as it rises and bakes. If necessary put fat in the bottom of the roasting pan, but usually the fat from the roast is sufficient.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING MIX

1 cup sifted all purpose flour 2 eggs well beaten
1 tsp salt Pepper to taste 1 cup milk
Sift flour, salt and pepper together. Combine eggs and milk, gradually stir into sifted flour. Beat with egg beater until smooth. The longer you beat a Yorkshire the better it is. At about 15 minutes before the roast is done, pour the Yorkshire batter into the roasting pan. Bake about 25 min. or until the pudding has risen to rack and is browned. Cut in pieces and serve immediately with slices of beef.

CORNISH PASTIES

4 cups flour 2 tsp salt
1 cup shortening 1/2 cup ground suet
1/2 cup cold water 1 large onion, chopped chopped suet or meat trimmings flour
1-1/2 pounds cubed round steak salt and pepper
4 med. potatoes, sliced or chopped 1 to 1-1/2 diced
butter or margarine turnips or rutabagas
Sift flour and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening and suet until mixture is crumbly. Add cold water gradually, stirring with a fork. Wrap in wax paper and let stand while preparing filling. Saute onion in drippings from suet or meat trimmings. Dust meat with flour and brown with onions. Season with salt and pepper. Remove from heat, add potatoes and turnips or rutabagas. Divide pastry into 6 parts. Roll out each piece into a circle slightly thicker than for pie. Place portion of meat filling on half of each piece of pastry, fold over the other half. Moisten between the edges with drop of water, and have under edge over top edge. Pinch and flute. Cut diagonal slits over top. Drop melted butter through slits. Place pasties on baking sheet, not too close together. Bake in 350 degree oven for one hour.

BOB WOOD REPORTS.

A Weekly Column by
Assemblyman Bob Wood - 34th District

Isn't it funny how some little incident in the every day process of living can bring out the importance of a certain truism that we never really paid much attention to before.

Such an incident was brought home to me a couple of weeks ago. The Salinas Rodeo Committee had been kind enough to invite me as Assemblyman in this District to ride shotgun on the Wells Fargo stage coach and sit up front with the driver on a very high seat directly over and behind a six-horse team of beautifully well-trained horses. I thought our young grandson from Fresno, age 4-1/2 might enjoy riding up there between the driver and myself so the two of us drove to Salinas and away we went.

I tried to coax him into waving to the people. After all, if his granddad is going to stay in office, his grandson will have to learn to help a little. But his small face showed very little expression as we rode down the main street of Salinas high up on the stage coach. I couldn't figure it out. I knew this wasn't his home town and I realized he didn't know anyone in the crowd but I still thought, or hoped, he would enjoy it more than his outward expression showed at the time.

However, his expression never changed until, all of a sudden, from the crowd his ears heard a familiar voice and he turned to see his younger sister, age 3, held up high above the crowd by my wife, Betsy. His sister was shouting his name and started raising the devil because she, too, couldn't ride with granddad up on the stage coach.

From that moment on my grandson's expression changed. Someone he knew and someone who knew him cared and had acknowledged his presence. His seat on the stage coach took on a whole new meaning.

Recently I was interviewed by a TV station in Sacramento and I casually asked if the TV station would be showing in Monterey County and he said no, it would be shown in the Lodi-Modesto area only. I realized right then and there I felt like my grandson before he saw someone in the parade who knew him or cared. It didn't really matter quite so much what kind of a job I did on the TV interview because I knew no one in that area and no one really cared. I doubt if I showed much enthusiasm.

Home is that spot where people care what you do, whether it be your home town, the entire County, or several counties or within your own family and circle of friends.

All of the State Legislators have returned to their representative areas and homes where their people care what they do. Each one must be judged for his actions, whether the verdict is good or bad, home is still that spot where the people at least take the time to judge, because they care.

Enough for now ...

BOB WOOD

P.S. Don't be discouraged because the legislature did not arrive at a tax reform program this last session. There is still time to get a program on the ballot before the next general election in November, 1970. The Governor wants it, the legislators want it and you, the people, are demanding it. We have considered various tax reform measures this last session but we must all remember there is no way to make tax reform perfect. If you shift the burden from one tax to another somebody benefits and somebody doesn't. Our job is to bring back for your approval the best possible tax reform program available.

Jazz Festival to feature the fabulous Miles Davis

Miles Davis, the legendary and frequently enigmatic jazz trumpeter who has been one of the most influential jazz voices since the early fifties when he began leading his own groups, will appear at this year's Monterey Jazz Festival.

The Festival will be held September 19, 20, 21, and the Davis Quintet is set to perform during the Saturday evening concert September 20, according to Jimmy Lyons, Festival general manager.

Davis, a towering figure of undisputed jazz stature has performed for the Monterey Jazz Festival a number of times previously. The group that he will bring to Monterey this year will probably consist of Wayne Shorter, soprano and tenor saxophones; Chic Corea electric piano; Dave Holland bass and Jack DeJohnette drums.

The trumpeter has been a powerful influence on jazz musicians of all instruments. The Miles Davis alumni club reads like a list of Who's Who in jazz. Among famed jazz artists who were at one time or another in a Miles Davis group are: the late John Coltrane, Cannonball Adderley, John Lewis, Max Roach, Tony Williams, Herbie Hancock Jimmy Cobb, Red Garland, Wynton Kelly, "Philly" Joe Jones, and the late Paul Chambers.

More has been written about Miles Davis than almost any other jazz performer with the exception of Duke Ellington and possibly Louis Armstrong. Not only have music critics dissected his style and his contributions to jazz, but Davis seems to have transcended the confines of the jazz performer label and become a charismatic personality. Writers have compared him and his art to such diverse figures with such diverse arts as: Antonio Ordenez, Stirling Moss and Pablo Picasso.

Davis, who has played his way through this near-deification with a wry silence, seems to be made of the stuff of which legends are produced. The pure tone of his trumpet seldom succumbing to the latest musical fads but always played by him with a tightness and economy of rare beauty.

Singularly uncompromising both in his music and his personal life Davis has inspired such comments as:

"What's new in jazz is what Miles will play during his next set." (said by a well-known jazz impresario.)

"I see pin stripe suits are coming back. I gotta get me one." (said by a jazz fan who saw Davis wearing a pin stripe suit.)

"Having Miles with us at Monterey is always one of the high excitements of the event," says Festival general manager, Jimmy Lyons.

Norvo added to star roster

The Peanuts Hucko-Red Norvo Quintet will perform at the Twelfth Annual Monterey Jazz Festival, which will be held on the Monterey County Fairgrounds, September 19, 20, 21.

The popular group features Hucko on clarinet, Norvo on vibes, Morey Feld on drums, and vocalist Louise Tobin. It will perform during the opening concert (Friday, September 19) of the three-day five concert jazz weekend.

The Peanuts Hucko-Red Norvo Quintet is known for its performances in traditional jazz forms.

The Monterey Jazz Festival is held in the 7000-seat outdoor arena on the Fairgrounds. As in previous years, the Festival will consist of five concerts, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings and Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Bobby Bryant, versatile trumpet star, will lead a big band of "All-Stars" at the Jazz Festival

The Bryant led band will be called the Monterey Jazz Festival All-Star Orchestra and is being organized and rehearsed especially for the Festival.

It is set to perform in many contexts throughout the three-day, five concert jazz weekend.

A star-packed group, the band will feature these performers:

Trumpets - Bobby Bryant, Freddie Hill, Buddy Childers, Paul Hubinon, Reunald Jones, Jr.

Trombones - Lou Blackburn, George Bohanon, Bobby Brookmeyer, Mike Wimberly (bass trombone).

Saxophones - Pete Christlieb (baritone), Ernie Watts (tenor), Herman Reilly (alto), Wilton Felder (tenor and Fender bass).

French horn - David Duke.

Amplified violin - Melvin Moore.

Guitar - Mike Anthony.

Piano - Joe Sample.

Acoustic bass - John Duke.

Conga drums - Chino Valdes.

Tuba - Don Waldrop.

Free Sunday concert features prize-winning young artists

On Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m., the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula will present its prize winners in the Young Artists' Auditions held in the spring of this year, in concert, as the concluding event of the Forest Theater free Sunday Afternoon Concert Series.

Featured will be Ruth Mirikitani, 17-year-old pianist, and Sp-4 Brian R. Iwai of the 28th Army Band, Fort Ord. Miss Mirikitani took first place in the Youth Auditions. She will play works by Bach, Chopin and Gershwin. Sp-4 Brian Iwai studied at the Juilliard School in New York City and more recently took first place in the Sixth Army Talent Contest for the West Coast. He will display a brilliant technique in a group of Chopin works.

A special treat for music lovers, will be the playing of Schubert's ever popular "Trout" Quintet by a group of young musicians from the Hidden Valley Music Seminar. These young artists have thrilled and impressed all who have heard them in the concerts presented in recent weeks at All Saints' Church in Carmel.

Mobile blood unit in Carmel

Carmel's quarterly blood drawing has been set for Friday, Sept. 5th, from 9:30 a.m. thru 1:30 p.m. at the Red Cross chapter house on Dolores and 8th Sts. The mobile unit from the Regional Blood Center in San Jose hopes to return with an excess of the 100 pint quota which will be converted to use as red blood cells, platelets and plasma.

Of special interest to many local residents is a new ruling from the American National Red Cross that donors in good health may now give up to their 66th year. In California, state law requires the donor over 60 to present a doctor's certificate attesting to his health and ability to donate.

A fringe benefit to donors is the delicious sandwich lunch served by Red Cross volunteers, with yummy apple-sauce cake and coffee.

A single donation covers the donor and his immediate family for blood needs for a year, while gallon and over donors receive lifetime protection.

Appointments may be made by calling 624-6455 any week-day - 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Barbecue planned by CBA

The Carmel Business Association is holding a barbecue on Thursday, Sept. 18, at the Water Works east of Carmel Valley Village.

Cocktails are at 6:30, with the barbecue starting at 7:30. Members are asked to make their reservations now.

CBA also announces a new lost and found service. When lost articles are found on the streets, park or anywhere in the city, the information can be given to CBA by phone, or brought to the office. Record of the finding is referred to when a call comes in, and the owner directed to the place where it is being held.

When Laurie and Tim announced to their parents last May that they wanted to get married, there was the usual parental concern that they were too young. The kids were just finishing their first year of college at MPC. Within a few days, however, both mothers were busily making plans. Now, these two kids being of the new generation, were rather bored with all the folderol that is expected of a prospective bride and bridegroom. Nevertheless, invitations were duly sent out. Since Laurie's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham, who own and operate the Pacific Grove Press, an omission of this step would have been a great breach of etiquette. Tim's parents, Mr. & Mrs. William Ponder, promised the kids furniture for their new apartment.

Well, on Saturday, August 16, at 8:00 p.m., everyone - and I do mean everyone - gathered at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel to see Tim and Laurie wed. Many relatives and friends turned up from out-of-town. And there appeared at least two or three dozen classmates from MPC. The cast of "Walter Mitty" came in full dress and discretely sat at the back, waiting to dash back to the Circle Theatre. (The curtain was held until they returned - a few minutes late.) And a science-fiction writer, Laurie's friend, arrived in beard and flowing black cape, with his fiancée on his arm. (He looked for all the world like Mephistopheles.)

Keith Graham, Laurie's brother, and James Ponder, Tim's brother, were the ushers. And it wasn't until I sat down that I remembered that Keith had mangled his hand in a press down at California State Polytechnic just a few weeks ago. While the soloist sang "Ave Maria," we all grew quiet.

Gail Jacobson, the other daughter of Jeanne and Harry, was her sister's matron-of-honor. She and Tim's sister, Kathy, wore short white-eyelid dresses over yellow. And they had daisy crowns, as well as yellow-daisy bouquets.

Then, Laurie came down the aisle in a short white dress and short illusion veil. She chose to carry a yellow-rosebud nosegay. It was all very touching, Tim looking years older in his wedding attire. Richard Pardtoud, now at the University of Chicago, was his best man. When Reverend Alexander C. Bryans asked who was giving the bride away, Harry Graham stepped forward and said in his booming voice, "Her mother and I are very proud to give her to Tim."

After exchanging rings and being pronounced man-and-wife, the bridal couple started down the aisle - Laurie overcome with emotion, tears streaming and Tim smiling proudly.

Everyone adjourned to the La Playa Hotel for the reception. Lots of champagne was flowing, and a three-tiered bridal cake stood on a table at the back of the room. Here, too, the flowers were predominately yellow - although there were garden arrangements, too.

Laurie and Tim received the 99 guests with patience and smiles, along with their parents. Carrying on a family tradition, Harry blew his bugle at the beginning of the reception and before the toasts began. This bugle tradition started many years ago. Harry and his bugle always attend the Pacific Grove football games. And he blew it at Gail's reception, when she married Jeffrey Jacobson a year and a half ago. (Jeffrey was on Coast Guard Reserve duty and couldn't make it to Laurie's wedding.) At Laurie's graduation, Harry was there with his bugle.

John and Regina Hicks came in late - because of having dinner with a publisher who was in town. Bea and "Seabee" Ward were there, of course, since the Graham kids are practically like their own. At one point, the bride was sitting on "Seabee's lap. (It's really C.B. Ward.)

Too soon, the celebration broke up, so the newlyweds could be off to Brookdale Lodge for their honeymoon trip. Nora Bawaan, who's gone all through school with Laurie, caught the bridal bouquet - to her delight. Nora wore a stunning yellow-brocade pant suit to the reception. And the groom's 12-year-old brother, James, caught the garter!

"They're like Tweedle-Dee and Tweedle-Dum," Jeanne Graham said with a nostalgic tone and misty eyes. "Even their baby pictures look alike." For the occasion, Jeanne was dressed in her favorite color - turquoise. And Juanita Ponder, Tim's mother, wore pale green.

Laurie and Tim left in a torrent of rice, which had been passed out to the guests. After another year at MPC, they plan to attend school in Berkeley.

Fun and games for firemen and children

Last Sunday, the local firemen and their children had a Playday, with sack races, pie-eating contest, egg-throwing, volleyball, croquet, and horseshoes. The event took place behind the Fire-House.

When first asked about the nasty bruise on his right cheek-bone and above his eye, Chief "Chip" Collins replied, "My wife said 'shut up' and I thought she said 'standup.'" Then, he laughingly admitted that he and Raz Belleci were in the same gunny-sack and took a tumble. (They were supposed to be racing.) Then they couldn't get up, "Chip" said, because they couldn't stop laughing at their comical circumstance.

Raz later got a lemon-cream pie on his face, thrown by "Chip" who didn't know it was lemon. It burns the eyes, you know. Being solicitous of Raz's welfare, they turned the hose on him to get rid of the sticky goo.

All the kids got prizes for their participation. And the wives and mothers joined them for a barbecue late in the evening. Seems to me the firemen know what life's all about.

Family Life program in Carmel School District covers broad spectrum

BONNIE WELLER

Information regarding sex--both the procreative and pleasurable aspects--invariably comes to our children at a rather early age. There are several sources: television, movies, magazines, peers, parents and educators.

What is gained from various media is, more often than not, erroneous--or at least distorted. Unfortunately, many parents cannot bring themselves to discuss this controversial topic with their offspring. And a goodly number are unequipped to relay pertinent facts in any way other than subjectively.

Where, then, does the child learn what he needs to know in order to deal intelligently with the inevitable confrontations he will face in his maturing process? The logical answer is that physiological and psychological studies be integrated within their school curriculum.

It is, of course, impossible to please everyone. Several thousand parents have as many different ideas on how to rear their progeny. And when hundreds of children are to be educated en masse, some workable compromise must be decided upon by those who professionally impart wisdom.

Recent flooding of mass media by outraged protests regarding sex education seems to call for a clarification of how this issue is handled within our own Carmel Unified School District.

Dr. Harris Taylor, Superintendent of the CUSD, says, "We do not have, anywhere in the program, a sex education course, as such. That is, we do not have a course which focuses primarily on sex-education. Information regarding family life and reproduction is included in the social studies courses."

"There is confusion," Dr. Taylor continued, "about family-life education and sex education. Some people feel both pry into family affairs--that is not the case. There is no way for a school system to stay out of sex education. The question is, what role should the school play? Our program is not delineated until Middle School, where there is a comprehensive health program. Kids receive a great deal of misinformation... Family life is incorporated into the health program."

In speaking of the sex-education program, Dr. Taylor also discussed how difficult it is for our children to grow up in our changing culture--they face the drug scene, the change in our sexual mores, as well as many other problems not previously encountered. Dr. Taylor pointed out the fact that our children need to know perimeters--or boundaries within which they have freedom of movement.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

At Carmel Middle School, a series of books on Health are used from 6th to 8th grades. "Part of our science program will be a family-life program," says Orville Rogers, Principal. "This is part of our science program--not sex education, per se. We are now having a two-week workshop for those teachers who will be involved. This program will be in all three grades--sixth, seventh, and eighth."

"Our generation forgets," Mr. Rogers continued, "that this generation is more knowledgeable. It was never more evident than when we opened this school. The sixth-grader today has knowledge equivalent to what the eighth-grader had twenty years ago."

"My feeling is this," said Rogers. "Not every parent can impart this type of information. If the school is to do it--at what age should we start? Each child has to be judged individually, as to when he is ready for such information."

SIXTH GRADE

The health series starts in grade 6 with a textbook "Health 6." In the Teacher's Edition of this California State Series, the Introduction states the purpose of the series:

"The Laidlaw Health Series is designed to help each child develop the knowledge, skills, and attitudes he needs to ensure healthful behavior appropriate to his level of development. In this health program, each child develops the background essential for maturing into a useful, contributing member of a strong and healthy society.

"Behavior conducive to health is based on such topics as sleep, rest, exercise for fitness, proper diet, safety, emotions, and social relationships. Together, these topics embrace the total person and his whole environment. The Laidlaw Health Series, therefore, helps the child understand both himself and his environment. It provides him with the knowledge and the motivation he needs to achieve physical, mental, social, and emotional health and to live happily and safely in his changing world."

SPECIAL FEATURES: "By using this positive approach in your health teaching, you can be assured that correct rather than incorrect patterns of behavior are established. You are also assured that there is no danger of making incorrect health practices look more exciting and more interesting than correct health practices..."

Areas covered in the sixth grade are: mental health, growing in social maturity, food and the body, germs and contagious diseases, the skeleton, physical fitness, respect for the rights of others, freedom of religion, and the child and his family. "In Health 6 every effort is made to help sixth-grade pupils appreciate their parents and their homes..."

SEVENTH GRADE

During this year, Health for All--Book Seven is used for seventh-graders. The introduction to this Teacher's Edition states:

"At no other educational level does one find a more diverse population of boys and girls, or a group with greater problems of adjustment. For most of these youth these years are a focal point in their development. New qualities of personality and character emerge. The problems of physical maturation can become increasingly difficult as they are complicated by social demands and pressures. The nature and direction of such development may be greatly influenced by the kind of learning experiences in health education selected to aid each individual through these transitional years. Accordingly, those responsible for health education in the junior high school play an important role in providing an effective program of education suited to the needs, interests, and abilities of early adolescents."

SUGGESTED AREAS OF CONTENT: "Physical growth and development, living practices, health maintenance and improvement, personality development, food and nutrition, mental health, family life, sex adjustment, safety and first aid, and community health."

"These are the transition years," this Teacher's Edition reads, "between childhood and late adolescence--the prelude to adult life. The junior high school boy and girl are neither children nor are they yet adults. These are important years during which a child is changing into a grown-up."

SEX EDUCATION: "Ideally, sex education should be given in the home from the time the little child asks his first question about how babies are born. The part that the home should play in teaching the child about life and the beginning of life is indeed important. Unfortunately, many parents feel unable to do this teaching adequately."

The Sex Adjustment section covers adjustment to a maturing body; sex problems related to growth; boy-girl relationships and social customs; and making adjustments to the family. Books and pamphlets for both parents and young adolescents are listed.

VENERAL DISEASE: "Because of the seriousness of the epidemic among teen-agers today, it is crucial that teachers and parents cooperate with the public-health authorities in helping check and reduce the incidence of these destructive communicable diseases."

"The U. S. Public Health Service states that more than twenty per cent of reported venereal diseases occur among young people under twenty. More than 250,000 teen-agers between fifteen and nineteen are affected annually. Among young people under twenty, reported cases of syphilis increased 227 per cent between 1956 and 1963, and the number is still increasing..."

There is a section on Guiding Young People through Physical Education--exercises, basketball, softball, soccer, volleyball, football, folk dances, and modern dance.

This course also covers alcoholism, drug abuse, and smoking--outlining the harmful effects. And there is a section devoted to behavior and grooming.

EIGHTH GRADE

Health for All--Book Eight continues the same areas covered in Book 7, with emphasis upon physical education and health. It is, of course, more advanced. And there is much more on science--with stress on anatomy, public health, and mental health.

STUDENT'S TEXTBOOK

Along with this book is the student's supplementary textbook, "Growing and Changing." This textbook is part of The Basic Health and Safety Program, published by Scott, Foresman and Company.

The Overview is "You're Growing Up." There are ten units: Unit 1 - Growing in Learning; Unit 2 - Nourishing Your Growing Body; Unit 3 - Sleep, Unit 4 - Exercise; Unit 5 - Growing in Safety; Unit 6 - Knowing about Alcohol, Narcotics, and Tobacco; Unit 7 - Growing in Independence--Choosing and Buying; Unit 8 - Growing Up with Yourself; Unit 9 - Growing Up with Others; and Unit 10 - Growing in Health Knowledge.

Mr. Rogers explained that Units 6 and 8 are particularly pertinent in their teaching program at the Middle School.

Unit 6--"Knowing About Alcohol, Narcotics, and Tobacco" opens with: "Part of growing up consists of acquiring the information needed to help you make decisions. From the health standpoint, some of the very important decisions you make will concern the use of alcohol, narcotics, and tobacco."

"Whether or not to smoke or drink, whether or not to experiment with dangerous narcotic drugs--these are problems that may confront you during your growing up years. The material provided in this unit is designed to give you essential facts to guide you in making wise decisions in these matters."

What is Alcohol? This section outlines the fermentation process, use of alcohol in industry, in medicine, and as a beverage.

"Today," the children read, "alcoholic drinks are thought to have very limited value as medicine. Small amounts are prescribed occasionally by some physicians as a means of helping relieve patients, especially aged persons, of tensions and anxieties. At the same time, the use of alcohol is recognized as a hazard because it is habit-forming."

Later, they are told, "It has been estimated that there are millions of people in this country who use alcoholic beverages in some form... About 3-1/2 per cent of the national income is spent for alcoholic beverages."

The effect of alcohol, parts of the brain affected, accidents, alcoholism, as well as alcohol and young people are discussed in detail.

"While alcohol affects every organ of the body, it has the most marked effect on the nervous system, especially the brain... It has been estimated that in recent years about 30 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking."

Narcotics: "Narcotics are drugs that strongly affect the nervous system. They cause insensibility to pain; they may result in stupor, sleep, coma, or even death, depending on the size of the dose."

"A person who continues to use a narcotic drug until it injures his health and who cannot or will not stop taking the drug is considered to be addicted."

The text covers marijuana, heroin, and morphine. The dangers of narcotics and addiction are clearly drawn.

Smoking: "Men and women who formed the habit of smoking 20 years ago, or even 10 years ago, did not have this new information. Had it been available earlier, there would no doubt be fewer smokers today--and fewer deaths from lung cancer."

The child reads about the effects of smoking upon his body and the death rates from lung cancer.

"Prevention is the best protection. Not taking up smoking is now the best way to prevent lung cancer. If you have already started smoking, the best prevention is to give up smoking."

"A man who smokes two packs of cigarettes a day has about one chance in ten of developing lung cancer, while a nonsmoker has only one chance in 270."

Unit 8--"Growing Up with Yourself" begins: "There is one person you are going to have to live with all the days of your life. That person is yourself."

"In this unit you will learn some ways of evaluating your personality. In the process, you may become better acquainted with yourself. You will learn, for example, about how personality develops -- why you are what you are, what makes you think and feel and act as you do, and what some of your strengths and weaknesses are. As you learn more about yourself, you will be able to see ways to change and improve during these important growing-up years."

Personality is then taken up--the part played by heredity, environment, and special strengths and abilities. Dr. Karl Menninger described personality as "All that anyone is, and all that he is trying to be."

This section reads, "Your family, of course, is a chief mold of your personality. From your family you absorb attitudes and viewpoints, standards and ideals, interests and curiosities, and many of your feelings about yourself and others."

Further on, the child reads, "Your personality is yours alone. You can have a big part in developing that personality. As you grow older, you become increasingly accountable for the direction and extent of your personality growth."

Feeling and actions, emotional needs and their influence upon behavior are discussed. "To be a part of things and to feel that you are liked by others are among your basic emotional needs. When such needs are not being met, you feel dissatisfied or discontented. So does everyone else under such circumstances."

"Of course, you already know that you have basic physical needs that must be met if you are to stay alive and keep reasonably healthy. You need air to breathe, food to eat and liquid to drink, temperatures that are not too extreme for your body, sufficient exercise, and adequate sleep and rest."

"You may not have known, however, that you also have emotional needs which are no less important than your physical needs. Your relationships with other people--the ways you feel and act toward your family and others--are greatly influenced by your emotional needs and your way of meeting them."

The three basic emotional needs are Affection, Acceptance, and Achievement.

Undesirable patterns of behavior when emotional needs are not met are taken up. And how to handle emotions wisely is also outlined.

"Your family and your friends have a basic emotional need for love and affection--as you do; they will have a hard time knowing how you feel about them if you never show your emotions."

And then, "Your emotions are a part of almost everything you do... Thus the problem is not to get rid of emotions; it is to learn how to develop such emotions as those of joy and affection--and how to cope wisely with strong feelings such as those of anger and fear."

Handling angry feelings, dealing wisely with fear, and the physical effects of emotional upset are all explained.

The text then moves into good grooming and how it adds to the feeling of self-confidence. This section covers care of the hair, hair-styles, colors and style in clothing, and dressing appropriately.

With this approach in teaching today, sex is put in its proper perspective as one of the basic needs--and therefore healthy and natural in its appropriate setting. If our young people are knowledgeable about physiological facts, it should follow that they will be freer to understand one another's psychic needs. Only when we conceal the facts-of-life in a shroud of secrecy does it represent high-adventure to youth.

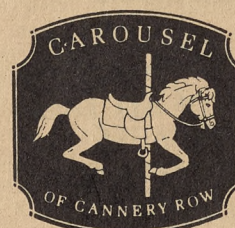

(Concluding article on High School program next week.)

Three medical emergencies

At 2:30 p.m. on August 18, Lorna Craig came to the Fire House after taking a tumble on her bicycle when the brakes failed. Her left knee and hand were scraped and lacerated, and there was an abrasion on her left big toe. The firemen bandaged her wounds and advised her to see a doctor.

Two days later, an emergency call came from the Wagon Wheel at 11:46 a.m. Derrik Espinosa, 19 months old, suffered a concussion when he tumbled out of a shopping cart. The child was transported to the doctor's office. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Espinosa.

The emergency crew was called to the Hideaway Motel on Saturday afternoon at 3:02. Mrs. Siegrid Johns, who lives in Marina, was having difficulty breathing. She was given inhalation and regained normal breathing. No further aid was required.

Pebble Beach readies for a busy sports weekend

The National three-day equestrian trials headline a program of diverse attractions on a jammed social and sports calendar at Pebble Beach over the Labor Day weekend.

This year's national trials, the first at Pebble Beach in nine years, have attracted 39 of the country's top horsemen.

Among the accomplished riders competing for the United States Equestrian Team National Cup are Michael Plumb, New York, who represented America in the Rome, Tokyo, and Mexico City Olympics. His father, Charles, a former Olympian and huntsman at the Meadowbrook Club, and James Wofford, who rode at Mexico City, will also be present.

Wofford, training now with the United States Rentathlon team in San Antonio, will face teammate, Mason Phelps, a Robert Louis Stevenson graduate, in the difficult trials over a course which has been hardened for the occasion.

Phelps, incidentally, was adjudged the leading three-day rider in the nation last year and is the sentimental favorite to win over his "own turf," which winds around the Spyglass Hill Golf Course down Bird Rock, on the ocean.

Following the national trials will be the American Horse Show's Association Cup, an intermediate event and the twelfth annual competition for the Western American Perpetual Trophies, a regular attraction on equestrian director Richard Collins' roster of events.

Fire call on ring Lane Ring

The Valley almost made it through another week without a fire--until Sunday at 11:28 a.m. Smoke mushroomed over the D. K. Davidson home on Ring Lane, just off Laureles Grade and directly across from La Rancherio. Sirens screamed, as No. 701 and 702 trucks roared to the scene. Close behind them was Chief "Chip" Collins in his car, 705.

At the site, they found a grass fire, ignited from a legally-burning incinerator. Fire Marshal Morden Buck and No. 707 met at Laureles Grade--and they wound their way quickly toward the still-billowing smoke. Pumper 708 came close behind them.

A lumber pile near the incinerator caught and bushes against a fence--but both were promptly extinguished by the two pumpers. Eighteen firemen responded to the emergency call.

According to Chief Collins, about one-eighth of an acre burned. But the estimated value of property endangered was $40,000. By 11:57, only traces of the fire remained and the men returned to the Fire-House.

Thomas Gardiner member of first class at Johnston College

Thomas Gardiner of Carmel Valley is a member of the first freshman class accepted for Johnston College, an experimenting liberal arts college at the University of Redlands.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gardiner. He has not yet decided upon a major field of study.

The first academic year for Johnston College will begin September 2 when faculty and students will conduct a 10-day opening session in the SanBernardino mountains near the Redlands campus. The two-week orientation will serve as a get-acquainted period in which students, faculty and administration can plan the year's work.

A total of 168 students, including some sophomores selected from the University of Redlands' 1968 freshman class, were accepted for the Johnston College program. Eventually, the college will grow to a 600 enrollment.

Johnston College offers a unique educational program in which students will study Interpersonal, Intercultural and International dimensions of learning. Traditional grading procedures will be replaced with qualitative evaluations of the student's progress.

Students will spend less time in lecture classes and more time in tutorials, seminars and independent study. Special laboratories designed to reduce prejudices and to encourage open-mindedness among students and faculty are planned.

The new college is the first cluster unit created at the University of Redlands, a church-related liberal arts institution with an enrollment of nearly 1,600 undergraduates.

LEISURE TIMES

JOHNNY SOPRANO of Carmel Valley sings and dances the title role in "George M!" now playing nightly except Monday and Tuesday at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel. Dale Lefler who directed and choreographed the musical hit plays George's father while his mother is portrayed by Jeannie M. Hughes also of Carmel Valley. Other Valley residents in the cast and crew of the show are Becky Douglas, Lindy Douglas, Peter Granoff and Mindy Rayne. Based on the fabulous career of George M. Cohan the musical is studded with two dozen of his memorable songs.

THE TOWN CRIER

The Art Show and Organ Concert originally set for August 31 at the First Baptist Church has been canceled, but will be rescheduled for sometime in September.

This is the fourth year for the Donkey Baseball Game, sponsored by the Lion's Club as one of their major fund-raising drives annually. The first year, according to Bill Stowers, was a hit-or-miss affair. But the second year, they started playing opposite the firemen--and it has become a tradition in the Valley now. Even though it was lots of fun for both the Lions and Firemen last week, attendance was not as good as previous years. The Lions big fund-raising event, "The Wine and Rose Ball," is scheduled for February 1970.

Three of us had an interesting visit to Tassajara Hot Springs the other day. Even though the road is treacherous, we managed to arrive safely. Mike Dobry and my son, Rick, went along. Since Mike is studying Modern Chinese History at Oxford, talking to the Zen Buddhist people was of particular interest to him. After a month's visit, Mike left for a stop-over in New York--then back to England for another two years.

Saturday night, the Subud group had a Chinese auction and dance at the Community Center. And they really outdid themselves. All lights were chandeliered in blue, green, and lavender crepe paper. Streamers in the same colors decorated the walls and auction stand. Now, at a Chinese auction, you only raise the bid a quarter at a time--until a timer goes off. Lots of choice items, too -- a tape-recorder, Polaroid camera, National Geographic world globe on its stand, electrical appliances, etc. Colorful Batik prints were also used in decorations. The women wore long dresses -- even the little girls. Very festive! John Pettit, who's studying at the Language School, happened to pass by on his motorcycle that afternoon. And, upon invitation, he returned for the evening. Coffee, sandwiches, and cookies were served throughout the evening. When we left, Roger Grafstein was dancing with his three-month-old daughter, Ellen, cradled in his arms. The music was wild!

At the Youth Center the other night, we lost our car-radio aerial. My son said, when he came out, someone had gone down the line of parked cars breaking off the aerials. Pretty costly fun for whoever did it.....

A Flea Market, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Fire Department, will be held on September 20 in the lot next to the Grapevine. The Auxiliary welcomes the donation of any goods which are still useable. Don't throw the things away--but take them to June Van Hagen at the General Store or Rosemary Roberts at 308 West Carmel Valley Road (opposite Los Laureles Lodge). If you have any questions, please call the General Store or 659-2322. Refreshments will be served at the Flea Market. BWW

WALTER MITTY (Mike Keller) is accosted by his wife Agnes (Jean McBride) and Walter replies with the song 'Nice You're Not' in this scene in Harry's Bar in the musical comedy 'The Secret Life of Walter Mitty'. It is playing at the Circle Theatre in Carmel this weekend and next.

Al Weber photography exhibit

The Eikon Gallery is featuring a one-man photography exhibit by Al Weber in their recently-opened second gallery in the Pacific Grove Art Center. Al Weber lives and works out of Carmel Highlands. His work is mostly architectural and aerial illustration, although in the past year he has illustrated five books for Richard Littleman, Doubleday and Bantam Press.

Weber has lived in California for 15 years, and taught in the Evening Division of Monterey Peninsula College for five years. His architectural photographs have been published in House and Garden, Sunset and Family Weekly. Both Holiday and Fortune magazines have contracted his aerial work, which is primarily low-level oblique illustration. Currently, three of his prints are traveling in the State Art Commission's exhibit, "Face of California."

In June, Weber completed his sixth workshop for Ansel Adams. He is now planning a series of workshops with Pirkle Jones, the first of which will be held in September.

For the past three years, Al Weber has been chairman of the Monterey County Fair Photography Exhibit. He also serves as a trustee for Friends of Photography in Carmel.

This exhibit at the Eikon Gallery is Al Weber's first one-man show, although he has exhibited in several group shows. His second one-man show will be in Jacksonville, Florida this fall.

Public hearing on design of new section of Carmel Valley Road

The public will have a chance to hear details on the proposed re-alignment of Carmel Valley Road where it was washed out last winter.

Bruce W. McClain, county road commissioner, has set Wednesday, Sept. 10, as the time for a public hearing. It will be held at the C.V. Community Center starting at 8 p.m.

He said that "this hearing is scheduled to afford opportunity for public participation in the consideration of certain highway proposals before transmittal to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads".

As the map shows, the proposed construction includes about two-thirds of a mile on either side of the Miramonte Road intersection with Carmel Valley Road located about 3 miles east of the Village.

Miramonte Road has been used as the westbound detour for C.V. Road since the floods early this year.

The Rhyming Philosopher

PATIENCE

How patiently beside a brook or standing in the surging surf,
The fisherman will bait his hook
as though without a care on earth.

He'll wait for hours, then try again and cast at ev'ry spot in sight;
Rebait his hook and not complain if fish at times are slow to bite.

At home, in office, shop or store
he may be cranky, nerves all tense,
And not the same chap anymore,
which fails to make a bit of sense.

There's lots of people just like him,
and you and I are not immune.
Our stark approach to work is grim,
with patience sadly out of tune.

We'd cultivate less irritants and sleep much easier at night
If we'd relax and change our stance, like waiting for the fish to bite.

Nancy Bottero to speak to 'Parents without Partners'

On Friday night, the guest speaker for Parents without Partners will be Mrs. Nancy Bottero. Her topic will be "Sex Education in the Schools -- How Much at What Age?" The meeting will be 8:00 p.m. in the Monterey Savings Community Room located in the Estrada Adobe. A coffee hour will precede the evening's program.

Previously, the PWP group met on the last Thursday night of the month. At a recent meeting, they voted to change the date to the last Friday of each month. And their new meeting place will be as noted above, in the Casa Estrada.

The Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the international organization of Parents without Partners is a nonprofit, nonsectarian, educational organization devoted to the welfare and interest of single parents and their children. Membership is open to any Peninsula resident who is a single parent - whether divorced, separated, widowed or unmarried. Children need not live with the participating parent for him or her to qualify for membership.

Monthly meetings are open to the public and are preceded by a coffee hour. Additional information may be obtained following the regular monthly meeting, or by calling the Answering Service number, which is 373-2795. Prospective members may also call the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Miriam Slater, at 373-1014; the news editor and circulation manager, Mrs. Gretchen Mackenzie, at 373-5527, or the president, Paul Patchick, at 372-7482 (home) or 373-0171 (business).

The organization has three professional advisors available to members with problems: a minister, Father David Hill, All Saints Episcopal Church, Carmel, an attorney, Richard Tourangeau, Monterey; and a psychiatrist, Dr. Robert Goulding, Carmel.

Invite registration for M. P. Choral Society

Registration for the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society will be on September 3 at 7:00 p.m. in the Band Room of Fremont Junior High School 1060 Kimball Avenue, Seaside. The Choral Society is a regular course under the Monterey Adult School Program, and the registration fee is $3.00 per term. Membership dues are $10.00 per year. Rehearsals will be held from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. every Wednesday night during the school year at Fremont Junior High.

The Choral Society looks forward to an exciting new season, under the baton of Haymo Taeuber, conductor of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Taeuber has conducted extensively in Europe as well as having toured with the internationally-famed Vienna Boys' Choir.

At the beginning of the term, the Choral Society will work on Haydn's "Theresien Mass," which will be performed on December 13 and 14. Other scheduled events are a Palm Sunday Concert at the Naval Post-Graduate School and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony which will be performed with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. As a part of the Bi-Centennial Anniversary of the Carmel Mission, Mr. Taeuber will conduct the Beethoven "Missa Solemnis" in the Mission Basilica.

The Chorus welcomes any new members - students, housewives, professional people and military personnel. Basses and Tenors are especially needed. For further information, call Mrs. Mel Buffo at 394-8804 or write P.O. Box 272, Carmel.

Mme. Ziceva to judge ballet scholarship at San Rafael

The Marin Music Chest of San Rafael has invited Mme. Olga Ziceva to act as a judge for their Ballet Scholarship which will be held on Sept. 13 at Dominican College in San Rafael.

A full time scholarship to San Francisco Ballet School has just been awarded to Carol Storm of Salinas. 18-year-old Carol is a student of Mme. Ziceva and a member of a group called "Ziceva Dancers".

Mme. Ziceva opened her Ballet Studio in Carmel Valley in June of 1966 and since then has given many successful programs with her local and out of town students.

Veterans attending MPC

may get educational benefits

All veterans in the district who enroll at Monterey Peninsula College for courses earning seven units or more are eligible for education and training benefits as approved by the Veterans Administration, according to Mrs. Louise White, MPC registrar.

Such courses could be taken in either the evening or day, Mrs. White pointed out.

Veterans with no dependents will receive $60 per month while taking 7 to 9½ units (half-time attendance), $95 for 10 to 13½ units (three-quarter-time attendance) and $130 for 14 units or more (full-time attendance). A veteran with one dependent will receive $75, $115 or $155, according to the number of units; with two dependents, $85, $135 or $175. Thereafter, each additional dependent adds $5, $7 or $10 to the stipend.

On-campus registration for evening courses will take place Sept. 3, 4 and 5, 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the Armory. Veterans planning to enroll for daytime courses are urged to contact Mrs. White in the college administration building immediately for registration particulars.

Prospects look good for opening of dove season

Prospects for good hunting on the opening of dove season, September 1, range from excellent to below normal in the central coastal region, the Department of Fish and Game said today.

The outlook is brightest in Santa Clara, Monterey, San Benito and San Luis Obispo Counties where dove populations are much larger than normal. However, much of the best hunting land in these counties is privately owned and hunters will have to have permission of the property owner to shoot on private lands.

Public lands open to hunting in these four counties include Los Padres National Forest, New Idria Wildlife Management Area, and Hunter Liggett Military Reservation and Camp Roberts.

Hunters will be admitted to the military reservation on a first come, first served basis, and the number of hunters will be restricted. Persons wanting additional information about hunting on these bases should write or call the Wildlife Conservation Office, Post Engineer, at the base.

The Department reminds hunters that these predictions are dependent on the weather. A storm or several days of cooler temperatures could move the birds into Southern California.

Hunters are reminded that this year's season opens on Monday, September 1, and not on Saturday. Wardens in the field over the weekend will be on the lookout for hunters who might try to bag a few doves ahead of the legal opening.

This year's two-part dove season runs from September 1 through September 30 and from November 29 through December 14.

Legal shooting hours are from 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset in the area being hunted. Tables showing legal shooting hours in different parts of the state are available from license agents and Department of Fish and Game offices.

The Camaro victory increased Chevy's lead over Ford Mustangs in the Trans-Am championship series.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

ELVA AND LIN DICKIE have just returned to their Laurel Drive home following a vacation trip combined with an exploration tour of retirement homes in California and Arizona. Tensely their friends waited until happily they heard the comment of returning residents which means that the spell of Valley enchantment is unbroken.... "There's no place like home!" In addition to Sun City, Ariz., they visited a new community on the Nogales Highway where landscaping by the residents is restricted to plantings indigenous to the desert; Sun City, California where they were guests of former Valley-ites, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Nagle; and the luxurious settlement at Rancho Bernardo. In Lakewood, they were guests of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lund and their two sons and spent several days in the Escondido - San Diego area.

This week end they are looking forward to the arrival of their other daughter and her husband, Lt. Col. and Mrs. T.G. Wardle who are on leave before Col. Wardle leaves on a Vietnam assignment. During their three week Valley stay they will be joined by Mrs. Lund.

IF YOU SHOULD HAPPEN to overhear two small boys chanting, "Our Dad can beat your Dad"; if their names happen to be Matthew and Mark; and if they are referring to golf....they're probably right! Golf fans will be watching closely the score of Andy Nottenkamper who enters the second round of the Monterey Bay Golf Club's 1969 Championship with a three stroke lead. The Lower Circle resident and former Colorado Amateur champion shot a 71 (par nines of 35-36) last weekend in the initial play. Tied for second spot with 74's were George Galios and Frank Maciera, both of Monterey.

"I DIDN'T KNOW THAT I knew so many people" was the surprise voiced by Vic Harber upon entering the dining room of Lou's Casa Carmela where a large group of friends had been assembled by his wife Susie to help celebrate his FORTIETH birthday! Susie had planned the details for a year including the buffet, champagne punch, and elegant cake inscribed, "Life Begins at 40". Vic's birthday happens to be on the same date as Susie's brother, Andy who with his wife, Lisa arrived from Laguna Beach; to enjoy the festivities. The Kincaids were houseguests at the Lilac Lane home of the Harbers for several days before continuing into the Sierras for a camping trip.

Numerous gifts and cards were opened from the guests who included Vic's mother, Mrs. Vive Harber and Messrs. and Mmes. David Allard, Leon Mink, Oliver White, William Broderick, Dale Buche, Tom Bottaro, Arthur Harber, David Harber, Robert Zampatti, Peter Lyon, David Hunter, Gordon Harlander, Bud Platter, Donald Brown, George Sackman, Richard King, Chris Spaulding, Gordon Brown, Richard Hindman, Thor Rassmussen, Robert Oross, Jim Pruitt, Richard Radowitz and Herb Blanks.

FORMER LAUREL DRIVE RESIDENTS, the Ballard Whites, sent greetings to the Valley recently via Vera Stokes who contacted them on her recent trip north. They are in temporary quarters in Oakmont until their new home in Sebastapol is completed.

THAT LARGE GREY BUS parked last week on Esquiline Road at the Lyn Sims residence was on a short side trip enroute to Mexico, filled with food and clothing for an orphanage. Directors of the haven for homeless youngsters are Rev. and Mrs. Les Lopez. It is the second orphanage to be founded by Lois (Irene's daughter) and her husband, Les. It is located 15 miles inland and south of Chula Vista. A church in San Jose furnished the converted school bus for them and helped to fill it with supplies for their small charges. Among the contributions gathered by Irene and Lyn are cans of bacon grease which the people in their village use as a rare treat for frying and flavoring tortillas.

"VACATION-TIME" was the theme for the Benefit Bridge and Canasta party held last Wednesday at the La Rancheria home of Mrs. Elbert Wade. Ruth's co-hostess, was her aunt, Mrs. Fred Clark, for the monthly event sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild. Centerpieces awarded as table prizes were the clever creations of Ruth's daughter, Miss Barbara Wade. The former Valley-ite now makes her home in Los Angeles where she is a designer for Samsonite. Naturally the decorative prizes were miniature pieces of luggage complete with tiny identification tags.

Sales of the Valley Fare Guild cookbook were brisk during the dessert hour when the hostesses served Apple Sauce Spice cake (the recipe is printed in the latest edition). Prizes awarded during the afternoon went to Margaret Burkholder for high in bridge, Dorothy Ewing who took second; Luella Ollason for a first in canasta and to Kathryn Walker who won second. The September party will be held on Wednesday, the 17th at the San Benacio Canyon home of Mrs. Leon Amyx. Newcomers are always cordially invited to join the group and are invited to phone Helen Fitch, 659-4207 for Bridge reservations or 659-4286 to make Canasta reservations with Vera Stokes.

FROM OVER AT THE Corral de Tierra Country Club last weekend Valley-ites brought honors back to Country Club Drive following the first annual Father-Son Tournament. In a first place tie with 63 were Steve Schaffer and John Oliverio with a twosome made up of Dr. Gordon Kingsley and his son, Paul.

MR. AND MRS. MAL TAVARES and children, Darlene, Danny and Dennis have returned from their vacation trip which included visits to Disneyland, the Mojave Desert (with temperatures in the 125 degrees), La Habra where they were honored guests at a barbecue given by former Valleyites, Mr. and Mrs. Al Koneingslieb, and guests of friends and family at Tehachapis and Pismo Beach. Returning north they visited the Mal Garcia family in Fresno and enjoyed a fishing and boating expedition at Modesto Reservoir with the Joe Silva clan of Fremont.

FESTIVE SIGNS READING "Kings' Roost" with red and white directionals helped fellow classmates, wives and dates of section MOZ7 (Oceanography) locate the barbecue dinner co-hosted by Lt. and Mrs. Peter Labyak of Marina and Lt. and Mrs. John D. King at the King residence on West Carmel Valley Road. While steaks sizzled, potatoes baked, and the tantalizing odors of corn on the cob mingled with delectable accompaniments, guests enjoyed croquet, volleyball and horseshoes. Others chatted about their next duty station, since October 1 is graduation day for this group after a two year program at the Naval Post Graduate School. Others in attendance were Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. D.H. Borden, Jr., Lt. and Mrs. W.A. Caster, Lt. and Mrs. A.B. Chace, Jr., Lt. and Mrs. F. Dattilo, III, Lt. D.J. Denham and Miss Wanda Fitch, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. R.E. Kirk, Jr. and Miss Donna McDonald, Lt. D.J. Mundhenke, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. G.E. Pierce, Lt. and Mrs. D.B. Robinson, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. H.D. Sturr, Jr., Lt. B.J. Taylor, Jr., and Miss Sandy Johnson, Lt. and Mrs. D.R. Thaxton, Lt. and Mrs. V.L. Van Brackle, Jr., Lt. E.V. Wurts, III, and Miss Carol Starks, and Lt. and Mrs. J.P. Zaretki.
